Dear colleagues!

We'd like to invite you for participating in the X International scientific conference "Sustainable development of territories: problems and solutions", which will be held on October 25, 2019 in Dnipropetrovsk Regional Institute of Public Administration for the National Academy of Public Administration under the President of Ukraine.

The annual conference invites scientists, experts, academics, academic degree applicants, civil servants, officials of state and local government, political parties, civil society organizations, the media and other interested persons who are working on these issues.

Conference form: in absentia.

Sustainable development is defined by the United Nations as a mainstream of humans' evolution in the twenty-first century. Ukraine started the process of systemic changes for postcrisis state reviving, providing welfare and safety for people, supporting their desire to live in harmony with nature. Focusing on sustainable development is based on ideas and principles which are set out in the Declaration on Environment and Development and also in Agenda for the Twenty-First Century. Those were adopted at the UN Conference on Environment and Development in Rio de Janeiro (Rio – 1992), confirmed and clarified later (Johannesburg – 2002, Rio – 2012).

The conference will enable us to generate research areas in the context of territorial sustainable development. Discussion on current problems and their solutions will allow conference participants to draw conclusions and make proposals (recommendations) for consideration in future research and the work of public administration and local self-government bodies.

We are looking for your fresh thoughts!

Perhaps your achievements and proposals will become a starting point for finding a way of sustainable (balanced) development in the implementation of public policy

SECTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE:

1. Theoretical and methodological principles of sustainable (balanced) development providing: economic, legal, social and philosophical aspects.
2. Mechanisms and models of sustainable (balanced) socio-economic development of territories.
3. Institutional framework for sustainable (balanced) development in terms of decentralization.
4. Formation, using and capacity building of territories' development: national and international experience.
5. Scientific and educational dimensions of sustainable (balanced) development.
6. Artificial intelligence in the management of economical, environmental and social systems.
